2 Image Examples

We will have 3 examples for our context:

- An example of an image that should contain alternative text ('alt text'). Alternative text is a descriptive text used in place of an image or graphic.
- An example of an image that has actual text within it that must be read
- An example of an image that is purely for decorative purposes i.e. it should not be read.

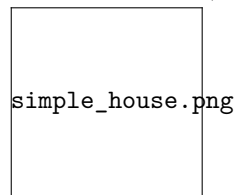

These will be in no particular order. Some filler text will be included to make them appear more natural.

Every day for a year, I have practiced my speech. I have used many techniques to improve my speaking skills, such as socialising, taking lessons, trying out tongue twisters, amongst many other things.

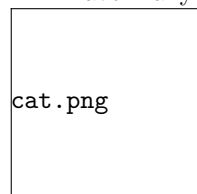

That was an example of a tongue twister I have mastered.

This house is for sale. Its market price is currently $100,000, but it is estimated to rise to $250,000 in a year.

I have many pets, but my favourite is my cat. Cats are great!

3 Table Examples

We will have 2 examples for our context:

- An example of a table that should have its heading highlighted.
- An example of a table that is purely for decorative purposes i.e. it should not be read.

These will be in no particular order. Some filler text will be included to make them appear more natural.

Names are interesting. How much more common is the name Noah compared to Muhammad in Scotland?

Year	Muhammad Position	Noah Position
2024	2nd	1st
2023	11th	2nd
2022	23rd	1st
2021	43rd	2nd
2020	31st	2nd

From this table, we can see that originally Muhammad was a far less common name than Noah, but in the period of 5 years Muhammad has drastically rose from 31st place to 2nd place, making it a strong competitor against Noah which has retained a top 2 placing across all years.

Here are my grades from this year, compared to my friends' grades.

Name	CS913	ML123	MS019	HI129
James	12%	20%	80%	67%
Patricia	80%	90%	31%	19%
John	34%	89%	55%	98%

I think John did the best out of them!
